“ Richard has been a real friend to me from being my 7th grade teacher on. His guitar playing and teaching I still use and value to this day. A friend and gentleman in every way. His life has made this world a better place

“ Carole, Terina and family,

I'm so sorry to read of Richard's passing. I pray for God to comfort you and give you strength and peace to face the coming days without him. I haven't seen Richard since his mom's funeral and I can still see the big smile on his face as he introduced you and I to each other. His great love for you was evidenced in that smile.

Richard and I were classmates and friends for the twelve wonderful years we spent at Coopertown School. In our elementary years after school, he, Jimmy and I would ride our bikes to Jack Chambliss store where we would shoot basketball until time to go home for supper. In high school, Richard and I were the Co-leads in our junior play. We had so much fun doing the play--except for enduring tons of white talc put in our hair to make us look the parts of an elderly couple!

Richard was so smart and always worked hard on his studies. That paid off with his being named valedictorian of our graduating class.

I am so blessed to have so many childhood memories of growing up in Coopertown. I think of those times so often and wouldn't trade that experience for anything.

God bless and keep you always in his care.

“ Richard was a true gentleman with a kind spirit and a great sense of humor. I loved hearing stories about his friends at the Grand Ole Opry and catching up at Bill's Barbershop. A fine Christian example. He will be missed by so many.

“ Richard was a good man. I knew his family for just about all my life, from his mother Myrtle to his brothers Jerry and Don, and his sister Ann. He was a good educator, and good citizen of his community, and Springfield and Robertson County are better off because he chose to call them home. Richard was a talented guitar player, and I recall when he was just a boy and he and Jimmy Wilson did a radio broadcast from the old WDBL studio when it was still on Main Street in Springfield. I did a couple of guest appearances on his show, and it was always a lot of fun. He will be missed by family and friends, and I'm sure he has gone on to a better place, to be reunited with all his loved ones who have gone before. May he rest in Peaceful Slumber for Eternity, in a home far more than the one he is leaving behind.
