“ Patient, quiet, and devoted...highly esteemed Christian values and instilled these in her children. When her granddaughters(my daughters) were little and would go spend the day, she would stop whatever she was doing and play with the girls. When I'd pick them up they'd have quite a display of their day with Grandma... baked cookies, art projects, new doll clothes they'd sewn together, and new makeup experiences (usually with their Pa as their subject). When they got older she was always ready for a fun board game or card game. Grandma Joyce was a favorite playmate to her grands. We will miss her but cherish these precious memories.
