I looked at my granddaughter today and thought of how you must have helped pick her out. You would be so in love with her. I miss you today just like yesterday and tomorrow. Can't wait to see you again but for now, I have many things to tend to and many people that still need me here.

“ We visited your grave yesterday. We talked about all the things that you did that used to make us laugh and made us love you so much more. I miss you so much that words could never describe. I know you’re dancing with Jesus, walking and talking and holding his hand. Tammy has joined you now. I will see you both again one day. I love you mama!

“ Happy Birthday mama. I love you and miss you so much. I bet the birthday parties in Heaven are so much better than they were here. I can just picture you dancing with Jesus and Granny. We are going to be ok down here until it's our time to come join you. You taught us to be strong yet compassionate, stern but loving, stubborn but kind, and most of all to love Jesus. I'll continue to try and make you proud until I see you again. I love you unconditionally.

“ I have thought about you all day. I am having surgery on the 19th and wanted to see if you had a gown I could wear but I just can't bring myself to do it. I know its silly. It seems like it was forever ago yet my heart hurts just like it was today. I don't know how many pages of messages I have written and just never posted. Maybe I actually will this one. I miss you so much. If only...goes through my mind so often. I just want you to know that I know that you love me and forgave me for all the things that I did. I forgive you and love you so very much.
