“ I've heard it said when people pass "God gained an Angel today". That hit close to home for me when my Brother and then my Mother passed away. Now today I feel the same way, God gained a sweet Angel. Annette was the kindest and most humble person I've met in my life. She would do anything she could to help someone out. The world will not be the same for all of us without her but it gives me peace to know she's up there watching over us!
