“ Several years ago when Jennifer and I were looking for a church home, we really struggled on the right place for our family. We visited several different local congregations and never could seem to find the right fit. When we finally chose WHFUMC a big reason was because of Bart. You see, many congregations had great people but what I always remembered about being around Bart outside of church was his love of other people and how he touched the lives of so many young baseball players. So many other coaches were more concerned with winning the 5/6 baseball championship than molding the hearts, minds and skills of the kids. Bart was always working on all aspects of teaching the kids about being better players, better teammates and better people. He always put the kids first above his ego and desire to win at all costs and that was what ultimately made my decision to want to attend the same place of worship with Bart and others that shared the same ideas, morals and passion about life OUTSIDE of the church building. I will always miss seeing Bart at the soccer fields, not understanding (he actually did but loved to joke about it) why they kept passing the ball backwards! His love for Beverly, Jessie and Wyatt was easy for everyone to see and I will miss seeing my friend.

“ Bart did excavation for me occasionally. He told me once if he had known his kids would be as good as they had been and such a joy he would have had a dozen. He loved his family and set a high standard of integrity for everyone who knew him. Danny Guill
