“ *Is That You? The falling star in the night So pure, so bright.
Is That You? The breeze gently blowing through my hair Telling me that you are still there.
Is That You? The golden ball rising in the East Bringing hope that a new day, the sorrow will ease.
Is That You? Setting in the West Bringing a night of peace and rest.
Is That You? Who dries my tears As I gaze towards my future fears.
Is That You? That makes me smile at life's irony That other people often cannot see.
Is That You? That gives me strength to carry on Even though you are gone.
Is That You? Yes. It is you. Your are with me always.
You will always be in are hearts Chuck.Alexis And Charlie* “ Sunlight seeping through the window gently falls across my face another day has come around but i'm still in this place of fear filled with wonder of what will come about today I know that your gone... I just can't believe you went away. Shower falling cold like rain but I cannot awake sometimes I just wanna pray the Lord my soul to take soon I am reminded of how the LOVE does go on with each thought of every memory that I've ever known. Now I lay me down to sleep with all the love for me to keep in my heart as the days move on and I no longer weep just as the cold wind blows, only heaven knows when I can see you again someday I know that your gone... I just can't believe you went away. Sunlight seeping through the window gently falls upon my face another day has come around but i know your in a better place. "for my mama" ~trh 2012
