“ There are so many memories, it's hard to pick just one or two. Like the night we decided to jump the parking lot hill in front of (where Sam Ash Music is now), or several of us always hanging out in various parking lots in Rivergate, Memorial Day on Old Hickory Lake (just getting the boat back on the trailer was an adventure by itself). We hadn't talked much in the last 20 years until we crossed paths again a year ago. It was fun to catch up a bit and learn how our lives had changed. I am grateful that we had the opportunity to be friends. It definitely hit home a bit knowing that a close friend from my past has been called home. Rest easy brother, I know your watching over us. Until we see each other again...!

“ Although I did not know Jeremy, I do know his son. I know the love his son had for his father and can only imagine how amazing this man was in real life. His son talked about him and the picture he painted was of a man who was larger than life, with a smile that could make the world stop and relax, a man who taught his son to never stop doing what he loved and always reach his dreams even if it meant failure. I would have loved to meet this man and thank him for letting his son serve with us in the Air Force. I would loved to tell his dad all the amazing things his son did, but I'm pretty sure Jeremy already knew and was the proudest dad in the world!

While I didn't know him, my heart goes out to his family and friends. To his wife, his daughters and his son, I'm so sorry for your loss. My families thoughts and prayers are with you!

“ I remember back when Jeremy used to coach football and a couple of times after practice, the dads got together and played with the boys. Those days were a lot of fun. I appreciate him taking time to do that. I also appreciate him throwing the ball to me, even though this dad couldn't even catch a cold! Rest well Jeremy.
