“ Christy, and Family- I just have you on my mind today. praying you feel the love and strength of prayer and feeling God's presence helping you take one day at a time... I am 43... Jess you were 29... so young and Beautiful ..... your kids so young, what an amazing mother, woman, making every day count, what courage, what an inspiration to others, me, though I had not met you in person, I felt thru your stories I already knew you.... No more pain, tears, chemo, no more hurt for you baby girl..... until that glorious day til your family sees you again.... I will continue to pray for strength for your husband, kids, mom and Dad, brother, aunts, uncles, cousin, all your family- prayers to help them know in their heart that they will see you again..... In God we Trust... Love Danny, Kelly Deffendoll and the boys

“ My condolences to the Family. It is so difficult to lose a loved one at any age. Life is so short. James 4:14 describes life as a "mist". However, it wasn't God purpose for it to be like this. Soon he will fix all things and cure all our wounds. He will wipe our tears from our eyes.( Revelation 21:3.4) Jehovah God will also bring our loved ones back to life.(John 5:28,29) It's so comforting to know that soon we will be with them again. You may learn more at jw.org, hope this may help you during this difficult time.

“ Praying for comfort for Jess's family . I never had the pleasure of meeting this wonderful young lady , but I feel as if I knew her well . Her aunt Christy is my very best friend , and just hearing her speak of her angel niece , and how much she adored her , and what a great wife and mother she was , I know I would have loved her also . May God bring peace to this wonderful family . I love you Christy .

“ I was so shocked and saddened to hear of Jessica's death. I worked with her at a school when she was teaching. I loved hearing her talk with her sweet voice and southern draw. God Bless her family. Those beautiful boys and her husband that she so dearly loved and talked about all the time.

“ I cannot properly express my sympathies to everyone who knew, and consequently loved "southern Jess." The first time we met, we parted having exchanged phone numbers, then a hug - because that's all part of who she was. Welcoming, friendly, & warm. It was nothing short of a blessing to know her. I think the world will have a little less spark without her here. With every warm regard, Reghan.
