“ Going to school with Joey, was a great funny day. He always liked being the person that made everyone laugh. He was most definitely out spoken and never met a stranger. He was very well liked in school. I've seen him get mad several times, but only when someone was trying to bully him or his friends. Overall, he was very well liked. I'd seen him a couple of months ago at Terry's Market after not seeing him since graduating high school. He was still smiling then and making others laughs.

Rest in Peace classmate. May you make the angels laugh alot now!
