“ My dear sweet Kaelani, even though it's been one full month since I've seen your beautiful smiling face, daddy still thinks about you every single day. Words cannot express how much you are truly missed. You still mean so much to your mother and I. We try so hard to keep our heads up for your older sister, but some days it's so hard baby. Our lives just don't feel complete without you. However, it helps get us through the day believing you're in a better place and that one day, we'll be able to see you again. When that day comes, it will truly be Heaven. Until then, know that you are still loved and missed immensely. Until we meet again, my sweet angel.

“ I know not a lot of people got to meet her, but she was an exceptional soul. She was absolutely perfect. We have so many memories of her that we will always cherish. She took our hearts the night she went away. We miss everything about her. She was the best baby anyone could ask for. She was so smart, so beautiful, and she had the sweetest personality. From the first moment we laid eyes on her, it was true love. I miss her movements, the way she would chew on her fists or kick her legs like crazy. I miss her cries and her laughs. I miss her baby talk. I miss rubbing my cheek across her baby hair. She smelled so good. I can't fathom how we will go on without her sweet face here with us. Lani Lou, we will NEVER forget you, you are in our hearts and minds every second of every day. I am just stuck here for a little while, but I promise you I will be with you very soon. I just have to stay here for your daddy and sister. I wish you didn't have to go. You didn't deserve this, but we all know you are in a better place. A place where there is no suffering, no pain, and the best part is your pawpaw, papa, mimi, and other relatives are there taking great care of you for us until we can be there with you. I will never know why or how this happened, but baby girl I will never forgive myself. All I can say is that I'll try to be the best person I can be so that maybe one day I can live with you again. We love you more than you or anyone else will ever know. Never forget that. We will talk to you all the time baby. You were just too perfect for this world. We are SO lucky. I got to carry you in my belly, I got to have you, and I got almost 3 beautiful months with you, that I'll never forget. I will look at your pictures and videos every chance I get. You are my reason for everything, Kaelani. I'll never be whole, or happy until you are in my arms, smiling at me again. Your daddy, Serenity, and I, plus all your grandparents, aunts, uncles, and everyone else are always with you. You had such a huge impact on all of us. We will miss you forever and always. I would give anything to just hear you laugh or see you smile again. Kaelani, you truly are a perfect angel. Mommy loves you more than life itself. The ONLY thing keeping me going in this life is knowing that I can still see you again one day.
