“ Richard was one of my very best friends and was an awesome pool player ,I had the joy of playing pool with him for so many years and can honestly say that he was very talented at the game and we were equally competitive every time we shot a game... We would always keep an account of the games won and lost and we never excepted a shot that wasn't called or completed exactly the way we called it ahead of execution.we could both clean the table in two or three shots most games and fewer shots at times... we both had very different techniques and approaches to the game and I will cherish every moment we had together especially the times at my home in my man cave , I was so proud to call Richard my friend ...God speed my friend:(
