“ Prayers for his wife, children, in the days ahead. Shane didn't know me from anyone but I was on my way home from summer regional from a shift and had a seizure driving. Once I came to and could talk he said who can I call I said my husband Randy he said Randy who I said Shaw he said I know him where is he today I said working at Vandy. He said can I park your car I said please. He called Randy told him what was going on. I was very thankful he responded to the scene they have numerous trucks out on calls. So he came in his supervisor truck. He said Kristy it will take Randy awhile to get here from Vandy. Let me call in to my office and see if I can drive you home if that's ok with you. So he drove me a complete stranger home. We talked from Gallatin to Hendersonville he shared some about being a realtor and fishing. Very thankful for a compassionate person to offer me a ride. His act of kindness won't be forgotten and I will never forget it. Rest in peace Shane. Kristy Shaw

“ My first time dealing with Shane was on a real estate transaction and me needing help making sure I got everything in line to complete it. He ask me “Did you go to real estate school?” I said, “ yes sir fresh out of it” lol he said “Well might want to go back” I died laughing cause I know it was a pain in the ass question that I should have known but he wanted to set the tone quick I’m not your secretary or real estate dictionary- but I loved the bluntness, I even said man we will get along just fine. I’m the same ass hole you are lol. He laughed hard and said let’s go get a beer.

“ Dear Lavonne, Mason, Madelyn, and Aaron,

We are friends of Aaron. Aaron mentioned Shane frequently, and it was always clear how much he loved and adored Shane. While we unfortunately never had the opportunity to meet Shane, it's clear he was the most amazing husband, father, brother, and friend to all. You are in our thoughts and prayers.

Love,
Sandra and Matt Morgan
