I will miss you my cousin Ronnie and I will always cherish and love you and our family memories together growing up. I know we will all be together in heaven one day. Our loss is heaven's gain. May God give your family comfort.

I know you are having a good time in heaven cuz! You are probably hanging out with my Mom! She always told me stories of how Aunt Lois was like a 2nd Mom to her when she was a little girl. She told me how she would go to Aunt Lois's house and play with Ronnie when they were little. I remember going to Aunt Lois's house when I was a little girl, too. I would bring my girls over there when they were little. I will miss you cuz! I was blessed to be your cousin Ronnie. I love you Ronnie! You were so nice and loved seeing y'all at your house. I remember you coming to my Mom's funeral in July last year. You loved watching Basketball and Nascar. Every time we would come see y'all you would be watching TV and we would get to watch it with you. Dad would be at your house for hours a lot of the times. Dad loved coming to visit you all the time, especially when Grandma used to live by y'all! Mom would come over there and say I knew Ricky would be here, lol. I have so many memories of you and also the ones Mom would tell me about when y'all were little. I am praying for all of your family! We all will see you again one day!

I remember those moments in time— showing up at your parents' house on a random Saturday morning in time for brains and eggs :) — not much I won't try to this day.

I remember what an incredible basketball player you were at CCCH — and Garner yelling at the Refs for calls he didn't care for. :)

Cruising in the Nova and Youth Rally's on Saturday night.

It's sad how life has a way of bringing us together and then separating us —so we cling to the hope that friendships barely begun in this life will have a chance to flourish based on Gods promises. I will look forward to seeing you ❤️.
