“ I miss you bro. I think of you literally almost every day. I remember that time we were in your Pathfinder. I remember we were driving around on some back road at like 2am and you pulled through a corn field and we went like 40 mph through some poor guys corn field then tore out of the corn field and onto the road again. Like an hour later we had to throw on our brakes for some reason on the street far away from that field and all these corn stalks came flying out of his grill that had been unknowingly lodged in his grill and in front of the pathfinder there was a pile of corn stalks and I remember we laughed until we cried. I miss you.
