“ As I sit here going through the thousands of memories of me and Tim I'm overcome with emotion. I think the first memory is when we went to coaklies market and we both had a penny to buy a piece of bubble gum and we found out it had gone up and we had to buy one and share. We were not happy. I was in second grade and he was in first. That was one of the first lessons we learned in life together. I remember the pride we took in our match box car collections. We loved our match box cars. While our parents played cards or games on the weekends Tim and I played our match box cars and we had dozens and dozens more. With Connie being in between our ages we didn't leave her out and played games and played outside and rode bikes with her. One year we all piled in a big yellow station wagon and headed off for Florida. We look like the Tennessee hillbillies but it was great and we all had the best time of all. Everyone gave me a fruit punch in a mix drink glass and trick me into thinking I had the buzz I think they all laughed at me the rest of the trip. It was so funny. Then we moved into our teen years and we remained friends let's just say we moved in some similar circles. But then I moved to Nashville and we see each other much but when we did it was like no time had passed at all he always had a hug for me and was proud to talk about his family. This just don't seem right, we should not be loosing Tim at this time. All I can say is Good Bye Friend and Cousin. I Love You.
