“ He was a wonderful human being with a beautiful soul. Still greatly missed and remembered with love. The world needs more people like Tim in, what a loss it has taken. Even years later, I still think of him fondly and wish I could've gotten to hang out with him even one more time.

“ I remember meeting a smiling young man who made me feel welcome and at ease. He had a great heart and didn't mind hanging out with Grampa and what must have seemed to be an old people crowd. I don't think he was bothered by differences - he found common ground with us all.

“ My heart is so broken for Timmy. I grew up with him. Our family (The Buycks Family) has so many wonderful memories we were able to share with him. He was ALWAYS smiling. He had such a big personality and lit up any room he walked into. His heart was good and he deserved to be here with us. He deserved to take up as much space in this world as he wanted to. I wish he would have known/believed how much he was loved and that he was not alone at all. I wish it would have made a difference. He will always be remembered because he was truly someone special. We will miss him. I will miss him and i'm sad that he is gone. It's been quite a while since I've seen him, but my last memory of him was when my family and I went to eat at Outback in Rivergate. He was our server. He was so surprised to see us and we were just as surprised and happy to see him. I'm happy that's the last way we were able to see him - just as he always seemed.. happy and smiling!

God bless his family and friends who are also mourning his loss. He is in the best hands there are now.

Warm hugs,

Aris & The Buycks Family

“ The first time i met Tim i walked in to The Clubhouse al9ne as usual and he was there playing pool. I asked if i could play and he said sure. He then proceded to play me 1 handed... lol i barely beat him that night with him playing 1 handed. From then on we have been pretty close. Im sure some of you know he asked to ride my motorcycle 1 night and i asked if he could ride he said yea. He took off and about 30 min later walked in scraped up and said im sorry man the bike went down... he stressed over paying for the damages for a month or so until 1 day we were at the bar and i told him hey the bike is fixed and lets just put it behind us. He was so surprised at this he gave me hug. He was a very special friend to me and i don't have many left. I truly and deeply miss him. I dont really talk about it much but in oct of 2016 i also attempted suicide and my sister found me and brought me back to life and then committed me. Me and Tim had countless talks about life and death and im sorry he lost his battle. I will say and idk if it will help anyone but when i had made the decision to do it NOTHING anyone could have said or did would have changed my mynd. Im so sorry to all his friends and family and idk if i should even say this but it is what is on my heart to say. I Love you Tim. The last thing he msg me was everything is going to be fine my dude... idk it really don't feel fine. I will never forget his memories.

“ Timmy and I tore it up. He was a great friend. He was always there to make sure I wasn't taking life too seriously. Timmy taught me to let the good times roll on.

One time, I thought I was going to have to take him to the hospital. We ate the most insanely hot pepper sauce I've ever seen. Tim, being the coolest one of us all, dug in without hesitation. About 13 seconds after his first bite of super hot salsa, he hit the floor. OMG! Is all I thought. It was a charade. Sure, it was hot, but Timmy knew what he was about. He made sure I had a huge laugh in spite of his pain. I endured that pain with him that evening. I shared in his misery. I ate that salsa too. That was 2007.

Today, I endure a different pain. It is a greater pain... one without my friend Timmy. This pain is one Timmy could not share. This pain doesn't end in laughter. This pain is deep.

I am eternally grateful for all of the times I shared with him. He made a positive difference in my life. The times we shared together were marked with smiles and laughter.

Rest in peace Timmy. You can relax now brother.

*Your friend,
Jordan*
